Current position

January 2020 – Present — PhD candidate, University of Cincinnati, GPA: 4.0/4.0

Education

2014 – 2019 — Bachelor of Arts and Sciences in Physics, The Ohio State University
Minors in Earth Science (Geophysics) and Philosophy

Areas of Specialization and Interest

High Energy Physics — Phenomenology

Computational physics, machine learning, simulated hadronization, gauge/gravity duality, model building

Publications/Preprints

March 2022 — Phil Ilten, Tony Menzo, Ahmed Youssef, Jure Zupan, “Modeling hadronization using machine learning”. SciPost Physics, 14(3), 027 (2023). [arXiv:2203.04983]

- “Towards a data-driven model of machine learning”
- “Connecting small and large scales at $\mu \rightarrow e$ conversion experiments”
- “Low-scale leptogenesis”
- “The earth mover’s distance as a measure of time-dependent CP violation”
- “Detecting axions at nuclear fusion facilities”
- “Extracting γ with likelihood estimation”
- “CP violation with likelihood estimation”
- “EFT approach to Wilson-Maldacena loops in multi-warp backgrounds”

Awards

April – August 2022 — Technion - Israel Institute of Technology visiting research student: Sandwich Scholarship

January 2023 — University of Cincinnati Physics Department Poster competition, 1st place

October 2023 – April 2024 — Department of Energy SCGSR fellowship recipient (Lawrence Berkeley National Lab),

Presentations

May 2022 — Technion HEP Journal Club, Technion - Israel Institute of Technology, Haifa, Israel

July 2022 — Rethinking beyond the Standard Model Summer school, Institute for Scientific Studies, Cargese, Corsica

October 2022 — AI4EIC Workshop, online

November 2022 — PIKIMO conference, University of Cincinnati, Cincinnati, OH

November 2022 — QCD@LHC workshop, Paris-Saclay University, Orsay, France

March 2023 — DIS2023 workshop, Michigan State University, East Lansing, Michigan

April 2023 — PIKIMO conference, Ohio State University, Columbus, OH

May 2023 — Phenomenology 2023, University of Pittsburgh, Pittsburgh, PA

September 2023 — IAIFI Journal Club, MIT, Boston, MA

Teaching

2015 – 2019 — Tutor in Physics^{a,b} and Mathematics^a

a. Office of Diversity and Inclusion, Ohio State University

b. Ohio State University Physics Department

Summer 2019 — Physics Instructor

Upward Bound, Columbus State Community College

2020 – 2021 — Teaching Assistant

University of Cincinnati – Physics Department

Workshops/Schools

January 2021 — GGI Lectures on Fundamental Interactions (online)

June 2021 — ICTP Summer School on Particle Physics (online)

June 2021 — Pre-strings: Preparatory School for Strings 2021 (online)

August 2021 — Les Houches 2021: Dark Matter (online)

October 2021 — School on Superstring Theory and Related Topics (online)

July 2022 — Rethinking beyond the Standard Model Summer school, Institute for Scientific Studies, Cargese, Corsica

November 2022 — QCD@LHC, Paris-Saclay University, Orsay, France

March 2023 — DIS2023 workshop, Michigan State University, East Lansing, Michigan

June 2023 — Holography@25, ICTP, Sao Paulo, Brazil
